NEW YORK, N. Y., November 2—An alleged attempt, against the national interest, and contrary to the laws of the United States, to turn over to foreign owners of national properties, has been made by a certain private individual, with the object of depriving the government of its rights under the laws of the United States.

The government of the United States has been notified of the attempt and has taken steps to prevent its consummation.

The attempt is said to involve the transfer of certain properties belonging to the government, including steamships, coal and other articles of value.

The government has taken prompt action to prevent the transfer and has sought to recover possession of the properties involved.

The government is determined to prevent any such attempt and to protect its interests in all cases where there is a possibility of such an attempt being made.

The government has also taken steps to prevent the sale of the properties involved to foreign owners.

The government is determined to protect its interests and to prevent any such attempt from succeeding.

The government has taken prompt action to prevent the sale of the properties involved to foreign owners and has sought to recover possession of the properties involved.

The government is determined to protect its interests and to prevent any such attempt from succeeding.
