Ten Thousand Children's Voices Join in Songs of Welcome for Bluejackets of Fleet

Photograph showing the stadium in Golden Gate Park, the chorus of 10,000 little singers and the great crowds of young and old who attended the celebration in honor of the bluejackets of the Fleet. More than 1,000 seamen from the war vessels listened to the program by the pupils and later partook of the luncheon furnished by the clubwomen in charge of the festivities.

COGSWELL TAKES ATHLETIC MEET

Children and Sailors Hold Celebration of Song and Feast in Park Stadium

Great Chorus of Young Voices Entertains 1,500 Seamen at Festival Arranged by Clubwomen

Golden Gate Park was not merely the city's play ground yesterday, it was the arena, for the sailor's home from 23 United States warships were there, joining with 80,000 of San Francisco's public school children and 3,500given us talk to the students. The largest thousand was the children's day as well as sailor's day. It was a successful day, as well as sailer's day. It was a successful day's celebration too, but would have been more successful had there been 3,500 less.

The cheer of the sailor was the keynote of the day. The croakers of the warships were to keep up a grand chorus of songs, but they were not altogether successful. The sailors were not as harmonious as their mates of the land.

The sailors with their horns, were to have their share of the honors. They were to be the sailors of the warships, and would have been as successful as the land sailors had they been able to keep in tune.

The program was to have been opened by a grand celebration, but was not carried out. The sailors were the ones to have the honor of the day, but were not able to keep up their end of the bargain. The sailors were not able to keep up with the children.

TWO YEARS DEVELOPED

Children and Sailors Hold Celebration of Song and Feast in Park Stadium

Great Chorus of Young Voices Entertains 1,500 Seamen at Festival Arranged by Clubwomen

Golden Gate Park was not merely the city's play ground yesterday, it was the arena, for the sailor's home from 23 United States warships were there, joining with 80,000 of San Francisco's public school children and 3,500given us talk to the students. The largest thousand was the children's day as well as sailer's day. It was a successful day, as well as sailer's day. It was a successful day's celebration too, but would have been more successful had there been 3,500 less.

The cheer of the sailor was the keynote of the day. The croakers of the warships were to keep up a grand chorus of songs, but they were not altogether successful. The sailors were not as harmonious as their mates of the land.

The sailors with their horns, were to have their share of the honors. They were to be the sailors of the warships, and would have been as successful as the land sailors had they been able to keep in tune.

The program was to have been opened by a grand celebration, but was not carried out. The sailors were the ones to have the honor of the day, but were not able to keep up their end of the bargain. The sailors were not able to keep up with the children.

COGSWELL TAKES ATHLETIC MEET

Children and Sailors Hold Celebration of Song and Feast in Park Stadium

Great Chorus of Young Voices Entertains 1,500 Seamen at Festival Arranged by Clubwomen

Golden Gate Park was not merely the city's play ground yesterday, it was the arena, for the sailor's home from 23 United States warships were there, joining with 80,000 of San Francisco's public school children and 3,500given us talk to the students. The largest thousand was the children's day as well as sailer's day. It was a successful day, as well as sailer's day. It was a successful day's celebration too, but would have been more successful had there been 3,500 less.

The cheer of the sailor was the keynote of the day. The croakers of the warships were to keep up a grand chorus of songs, but they were not altogether successful. The sailors were not as harmonious as their mates of the land.

The sailors with their horns, were to have their share of the honors. They were to be the sailors of the warships, and would have been as successful as the land sailors had they been able to keep in tune.

The program was to have been opened by a grand celebration, but was not carried out. The sailors were the ones to have the honor of the day, but were not able to keep up their end of the bargain. The sailors were not able to keep up with the children.