STIMSON GIVES
INDORSEMENT TO
TAYLOR SYSTEM

To Adopt Plan That Is Opposed By Organized Labor.

IS MISUNDERSTOOD,
SAYS THE SECRETARY

Union Officials Retain Opposition—Cabinet Committee Will Indorse It.

Characterizing the Taylor system of shop management in Government works as being one of scientific management, and as "one of the most sensible of the age," Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, today gave unqualified endorsement of the system within the American Federation of Labor, the International Association of Machinists, and the "independent" organizations throughout the country, and hailed the Taylor system machinists and several workers of the country, have made a good job of it.

Call It Successful.

While Mr. Stimson endorsed all the principles involved in the Taylor system, he pointed out that the theory was not formulated in one night.

"It is a successful movement," he said,
"and it has been a very successful movement." He said that it proved successful in a short time.

"The success of the system is due largely to the fact that it is based on science," he said, "and not on opinion." He said that it had been proved successful in many cases.

The endorsement of the Taylor system by the cabinet committee would be made known to the Merchants Association of Washington.

The Navy Department, which is working from the same basis as the Taylor system, will give a different view of the subject, Mr. Stimson said, but he believed that the system would be found successful in many cases.

Residents sanatoriums and General Orderly Officers of the army and nurses of the navy, Mr. Stimson said, would be given a different view of the subject, but he believed that the system would be found successful in many cases.

Expatriation Considerations.

In his remarks, Mr. Stimson said that the expatriation considerations had not been fully considered, but he believed that the system would be found successful in many cases.
