BATTLESHIPS READY FOR CRUISE TO PACIFIC.

NO KNOX BOOM HERE

CHEERS FOR HUGHES

Additional in Chicago Speaker Will

CANNON'S ROOM MOVES.

President Looks for Party Line-up.

LONDON PAPERS OF STATEMENT

Do Not Believe the President—Taft, FDR, and All Will Support His Policy.

President, Dec. 13—President Roosevelt's statement to the effect that he would not support his Cabinet in a political campaign might have been a calculated remark. The report that the President is for a constructive party policy is not true.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.

The President's statement is not new. It has been made several times before, and is a well-known fact. The President is for a constructive party policy, and he will support his Cabinet in that policy.