Spain's Navy Is No Match for the Peerless Boats of Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29--The future of Spanish naval supremacy over the United States was defined by the Naval Constructor, Mr. Lewis, in a speech made to Congress this week. He declared that the Spanish Navy was no match for the United States Navy, which he described as the finest fighting machine in the world. The Indiana, in particular, is the most powerful ship in the Spanish navy, he said, and it is well equipped to handle the Spanish fleet.

The Perils Newspaper Men Encounter Gathering War News in Cuba.

The dangers of gathering war news in Cuba were outlined by Mr. Lewis. He said that the Spanish fleet was well suited to handle the American forces, which were inexperienced and untrained. The Americans would have to be retrained and equipped before they could face the Spanish fleet.
