Sidelights on the Launching of the Battleship Nebraska at Seattle

The Nebraska Clear of the Ways.

Launching a battleship in a single pass through the great shipways of the Seattle ship radio station on Monday morning will be one of the most important events of the month. Thevines, on the International Wharf of the Commercial Union Company, will be broken at 10:15 a.m., and the Nebraska will be launched in a single pass through the great shipways of the Seattle ship radio station.

The Nebraska, the sixteenth battleship built by the Federal Government, was completed in the Dry Dock of the Norfolk Navy Yard in March, 1904. She was then sent to the Atlantic Test Range, where she was found to be in condition for service, and was assigned to the United States Navy.

The Nebraska is the largest battleship ever built, and is the first of the class to be completed. She is 600 feet long, and has a displacement of 9,000 tons. Her armament consists of twelve 14-inch guns, and her speed is 25 knots.

Prof. Bessey's World's Fair Observations.

AUGUST 15—After the middle of the month, when the World's Fair will be at its height, the thousands of visitors will begin to leave. The exhibits will be taken down, and the buildings will be torn down and replaced by the old ones. The fair will be over, and the world will be left with the memories of the World's Fair, which will last for many years. And it is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest.

In my work of writing the book, I have been visited by many people who have gone to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences. And it is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest. It is the people who went to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences, that will last the longest.

It is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest.

The Nebraska was launched with great ceremony, and the people of Seattle were delighted with the spectacle. The ship was solemnly blessed by the Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and then the water was let into the ship, and the Nebraska was launched. The people of Seattle were delighted with the spectacle, and the ship was solemnly blessed by the Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and then the water was let into the ship, and the Nebraska was launched.

In my work of writing the book, I have been visited by many people who have gone to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences. And it is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest. It is the people who went to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences, that will last the longest. It is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest.

In my work of writing the book, I have been visited by many people who have gone to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences. And it is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest. It is the people who went to the fair, and who have told me about their experiences, that will last the longest. It is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest.

It is not the memories of the exhibits, but the memories of the people who went to the fair, that will last the longest.