News of the Week as Caught by the Camera

HOLE IN SUSPENDERS SETS YOUTH ON FIRE

Making of Luteus Causes Friction and an Odd Fatality in Explosive Mill

Pittsfield, Mass. (Special) — The Mayor of Pittsfield rushed to the scene of an explosion at the Pittsfield Dynamite Company Receiving and Storage Building here this morning to investigate reports of a man being found dead with a hole in his suspenders.

The man, a twice-married 35-year-old laborer named William Peters, was found dead in a room on the second floor of the building. The hole in his suspenders was said to be about the size of a quarter.

Peters had been employed at the company for two years. He was last seen alive about 9:00 this morning, when he left the building to go home.

An inquest was opened, and Peters' body was removed to the hospital for an autopsy.

His Clothes Pregned

Rushed to the scene to investigate, the Mayor immediately ordered an investigation into the circumstances surrounding Peters' death. The Mayor said that Peters had been known to take measures of safety, such as wearing protective clothing, but that he had not had a history of being careless.

The investigation revealed that Peters had been working with an explosive, and that he had been in the vicinity of the explosion when it occurred.

The explosion reportedly caused a hole to appear in Peters' suspenders, and he had been found dead a short time later.

MAN AND TURTLE IN CELI

St. Louis Citizen With a Brown Nose Returns To His Home in Paris

R. Doubly McInerney of Paris, 40-year-old war, was arrested this morning at the New York Sun, charged with stealing a massive sea turtle from the Central Park Zoo.

McInerney was reportedly seen at a local restaurant with a large, sea turtle-shaped object. Police were called, and McInerney was arrested after a brief struggle.

When questioned, McInerney admitted to stealing the turtle, saying that he had found it on the beach and wanted to take it home as a pets.

The turtle, a rare species known as the massive sea turtle, is protected under federal law.

CHASES WIFE ACROSS OCEAN

"Million-dollar Kid" Wants Her in Call Off Divorce Bid Planned Against Her

New York — "I'm not here to sue her," said the "Million-dollar Kid" this morning in court. "I just want her to come back to me."

The "Million-dollar Kid," who is reported to be worth over $1 million, was married to a famous actress last year, but the marriage has been plagued with problems.

When asked if he had filed for divorce against his wife, the "Million-dollar Kid" said, "I want her back. She's mine."

"She's my wife," he said, "and I'm not going to let anyone else have her."

When told that he had arrived in New York City last night on a private plane, the "Million-dollar Kid" said, "I'm not going to let her leave me."

He added that he would take any measures necessary to keep his wife, and that he would not let anyone stand in his way.

When asked if he was planning to take legal action, the "Million-dollar Kid" said, "Yes, I'm going to do whatever it takes to get her back."

"I love her," he said, "and I'm not going to let anyone take her away from me."