Airplanes to Speed Up Overseas Mail Service

Plans Under Consideration to Fit Ocean Liners With Aircraft Promise Transatlantic Delivery in Thirty-Six Hours

By RUSSELL B. MOON, U. S. N.

WITH THE rise of the airplane by the United States and the rapid advance made in flying from the United States to the Orient, and the promise of peace on honor of all oceans, the past fifty-three years have been the era of mail and stage routes. The airplane is the new form of transportation that the stagecoach never had. It is the leading clause in the post-time of all the world, and the stages of the past are a memory.

The airplane is not only a stagecoach, but it is a steamer, and a train, and it is all three.

It is a steamer because it can travel far and fast, and it can be used for mail and passenger service.

It is a train because it can travel on the new lines of the world, and it can be used for mail and passenger service.

It is a stagecoach because it can travel on the old lines of the world, and it can be used for mail and passenger service.

The airplane is a stagecoach, and a steamer, and a train, and it is all three.
