Making Ready the Spring Blouses

Now is the time to think of transference of the materials for the coming sewing season. Some things are always the same, and it baffles the thrifty housewife to be prepared for any contingency, yet it will be wise to plan for the coming year as early as possible.

As far as material is concerned, the yardage ideas of the past are gone. To-day and to-morrow are to be planned for and that means a great deal of adaptation. To-day the demand is for something new, something that will similiarly appeal to the eye and to the pocket book.

Choosing the pattern is always the most difficult part of the business. The material in demand is always subject to change, so it is well to be prepared for anything. The material that is in demand to-day may be out of fashion to-morrow.
