FINE RECORD OF DIPLOMATS

By A FOREIGN SECRETARY OF EMBASSY

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES OF the United States, though untrained, have been equal to task required of them. In the course of their careers they have met with vigorous opposition, but have stood the test of time. These men have been chosen by the President for their abilities and experience, and have been encouraged to show their worth. Their success is a reflection on the country that they represent.

The American government has always been proud of its representatives abroad. They have been chosen with great care and have always been found to be worthy of their mission. The American flag has never been tarnished by the actions of its representatives, but has always been held in high esteem.

The American government has always been careful to select its representatives abroad. They have been chosen for their ability, experience, and character. They have been encouraged to show their worth and to represent the United States in a manner that would reflect credit on the country.

The American government has always been proud of its representatives abroad. They have been chosen with great care and have always been found to be worthy of their mission. The American flag has never been tarnished by the actions of its representatives, but has always been held in high esteem.

The American government has always been careful to select its representatives abroad. They have been chosen for their ability, experience, and character. They have been encouraged to show their worth and to represent the United States in a manner that would reflect credit on the country.

Only under canvas but laugh at cold

SAILING DUMMY UNITED STATES BATTLESHIPS

MASSIVE VESSELS MANOEUVRED AT A BROOKLYN ARMORY FOR INSTRUCTION OF NAVAL CASOTS

SAMPSON PALMER AND CHILDREN WHO HAVE LIVED ALL WINTER IN A TENT NEAR YORKERS, N. Y. IN SIXTEEN YEARS PALMER BELIEVES HE HAS LIVED LONELY BY CONSTANTLY LIVING OUTDOORS.

ROMANCE IN RHONE VALLEY

Charms That Automobilists Find in That Wonderland in Southern France

Continued from Eighteenth Page.