TRAMP OF THE WOUNDED

All Who Could Walk Had to Drag Themselves to the Sea.

OUR MEN HONE IT LIKE REMEDIES.

Scene Along the Pac. Where the Seeing Soldiers Felted in the Moonlight. The Wounded Men Were Berried on the Streets in the Train to the Texas.

The New York Sun's correspondent, writing under the date of July 4 from Siboney, Cuba, described the scene along the path where our wounded soldiers plodded toward the hospital in Siboney as follows:

"Before we reached the last wagon we heard the声 of a cheer. The General Shafter Reviewing Cuban Troops (From a photograph by George Shuster)."
