

Rear Admiral James A. Symonds

Rear Admiral James A. Symonds is a native of Sodus, New York. He received a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics from the University at Albany (NY) in 1975. He was commissioned at Aviation Officer Candidate School, Naval Air Station Pensacola, Florida in September 1975, designated a Naval Flight Officer in July 1976 and as a Naval Aviator in 1983.

Symonds flew the A-6 Intruder with Attack Squadron (VA) 115 “Eagles” (forward deployed in Yokosuka, Japan), VA-196 “Milestones” and VA-128 “Golden Intruders.” Outside the cockpit he served as air operations officer, U.S. Sixth Fleet, in Gaeta, Italy and as Deputy Director of Operations for Counterdrug Operations in U.S. Southern Command, Miami, Florida. His first flag officer assignment was as Director of the Chief of Naval Operations Environmental Readiness Division (CNO N45).

Symonds commanded Medium Attack Weapons School at NAS Whidbey Island, Washington, VA-165 “Boomers,” amphibious transport dock USS Nashville (LPD 13) and the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Ronald Reagan (CVN 76). His last assignment on active duty was as commander, Navy Region Northwest, based in Silverdale, Washington, from July 2007 to June 2010, where he was responsible for operations, Sailor and family services, and facilities on four major Navy installations around the Puget Sound.

Symonds amassed 4,000 flight hours in the A-6 and more than 1,000 carrier landings during his flying career. He was awarded the Defense Superior Service Medal, Legion of Merit (four), Meritorious Service Medal (four), Strike Flight Medal, Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal (three) and Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal (two) and various unit and campaign citations.

Last updated: 22 September 2021