Greetings,

I am requesting your permission to scan still images of Landing Craft Infantry (LCI) from your DVD "D-Day Code Name Overlord" to add to the Naval Resource website.

Navsource is a non-commercial organization--we do not sell anything and have no income--entirely run by volunteers who are not paid for their work. For further information on the NavSource project and its goals, please visit our website at <http://www.navsource.org/archives/team.htm>.

Mission Statement

The simple goal of NavSource Naval History is the preservation of naval history, in the form of images and text, also to help former shipmates find each other by providing reunion and contact information. We also hope to help historians and researchers find information and sources not previously available through private photo collections and records donated to us by former ships personnel. We also make available to everyone public images and records found scattered in various locations Indexed in one place for easy reference.

Thank you for your attention,

Robert G. Morrissey
