

DEWEY SENDS A HURRY CALL FOR THE OREGON

Wants Her at Manila at Once for "Political Reasons."

FOREIGN COMPLICATIONS ARE FEARED

Startling Dispatch From the American Admiral Laid Before the Cabinet—Request Will Be Complied With—The Battleship Now at Honolulu.

Secretary Long took to the Cabinet meeting this morning two cipher cables from Admiral Dewey, dated today. The following are translations:

"Manila, Feb. 24.

"Secretary Navy, Washington:

"For political reasons Oregon should be sent at once.

"DEWEY."

"Manila, Feb. 24.

"Secretary Navy, Washington:

"Yorktown arrived, Charleston and Petrel cruising around Philippine Islands. Affairs more quiet. DEWEY."

Admiral Dewey's urgent request for the immediate presence of the battleship Oregon at Manila for "political reasons," is taken as an indication that he is not entirely satisfied with the attitude of other foreign warships in that vicinity.

Hints of Foreign Complications.

It is not for an instant presumed that Admiral Dewey would have any use for so formidable a vessel as the Oregon in operations against the insurgents, as her deep draft would prevent her near approach to the shore and her big ammunition would be wasted on any other target than an enemy's battleship of any but her own type and class.

Neither the Philippines nor Spain has any such vessels in Asiatic waters. Great Britain and Japan possess some, but there is no concern about the friendliness of those two countries. The German and Russian fleets in the Western Pacific include such ships, but those nations are presumed at present to be upon amicable terms with the United States. Whether Admiral Dewey, with his well-known foresight, foresees a change in this condition is the subject of serious speculation.

Full Confidence in Dewey.

At any rate, such confidence is felt in him and his grasp of affairs, that there will be no delay in gratifying his wish. The authorities are particularly pleased to learn that he has already started two of his ships to making visits throughout the archipelago for the purpose of hoisting the American flag and securing the allegiance of the natives.

Nearly all the gunboats which have been ordered to him have either arrived or are near their destination, and this will enable him while creating good relations with the natives of the distant islands, in the group, at the same time to retain a powerful squadron at Manila for whatever emergency may arise.

Orders to the Oregon at Honolulu.

The Navy Department is trying to find out the quickest way to send orders to the Oregon, which is now at Honolulu, to hurry across the Pacific. They find that the first mail steamer is the city of Peking, leaving San Francisco Wednesday, March 1. The army, however, has chartered and loaded the fast Alaska transportation steamer Honolulu, which is scheduled to leave San Francisco on Sunday and it is probable that she will take the order, a duplicate being sent to the city of Peking.

EFFECT OF DEWEY'S DISPATCH.

Officials believe the Admiral expects foreign interference.

The impression created at the Navy Department and in Administration circles by the language of Admiral Dewey's dispatch this morning is that he is apprehensive of foreign interference. It is not thought that any action hostile to the United States will be taken by the representatives of foreign powers in Philippine waters, but in view of the continued fighting and the damage recently done to the city of Manila by the insurgents there is every probability that some of the foreign warships may be anxious to land marines to protect the interests of foreign residents.

This, Admiral Dewey thinks, would be an admission of the weakness of the United States in the islands and it is his view it is concurred in by the Department. He is desirous of having his fleet augmented so that he will be strong enough to prevent any such action by the foreign warship commanders by being able to assure them that the American fleet and land forces are strong enough to afford adequate protection to all residents of the city and to effectually control the situation.

Notwithstanding the optimistic views given out by the officials both of the War and Navy Departments and at the White House, there is some apprehension concerning the general situation in the islands. The Americans have been victorious in every instance and the natives suffered enormous losses, but it does not seem to have affected their fanatical desire to rid themselves of the Americans. It is pretty certain that they will have to keep on fighting until his army is increased to the extent that it will be able to inaugurate an offensive campaign against the rebels and completely crush them.

THE CABINET MEETING.

Situation in the Philippines Discussed at the White House.

The Cabinet meeting this morning lasted but half an hour. Secretaries Gage and Long, however, remained with the President some time after the other members had gone from the White House. The situation in the Philippine Islands was the principal topic of discussion. Mr. McKinley acquainted his advisers with the dispatches received from Admiral Dewey and General Otis.

Further than a discussion of the Philippine question, the Cabinet meeting was, according to an officer, rather chatty. The Presidential trip to Boston was talked over. Secretary Long, who remained in Boston, and among the persons who were present at the banquet of the Home Market Club and at the Massachusetts Legislature, where the President made an impromptu speech.

CAVITE A COALING STATION.

Large Supply Stored There for Supplying American Ships.

In the midst of the excitement at Manila comes word from Rear Admiral Dewey that he has quietly been converting Cavite into a first-class coaling station for United States ships.

He has now 15,000 tons of coal stored there, a supply which will be invaluable in enabling our Pacific fleet to winter in Philippine waters for a long period without its efficiency being impaired for the want of fuel.

THE OREGON.

"We're Coming, Admiral."

MORE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

General Otis Reports Casualties Near San Pedro Macati.

The following dispatch was received from General Otis today:

"Manila, Feb. 24.

"Additional casualties, February 22, during reconnaissance near San Pedro Macati: Private Washington—Killed; Company H, Private Albert J. Ruppert.

"Following an engagement near Calocan, Feb. 22-23:

"Third South Dakota—Killed: Company C, Private Oscar L. Felker; Company M, Private William D. Smith, died of wounds.

"Wounded: Company B, Private Fred Tolpin, neck and back, moderate; Company M, Martin Eide, arm, slight; Musician Charles Hillberg, neck, severe.

"Third Artillery—Wounded: Battery G, Sergeant Jasper A. Lewis, wrist, slight; Battery H, Sergeant Charles W. Wheeler, head, slight.

"Tenth Kansas—Killed: Company F, Private George H. Monroe; Wounded: Company L, First Lieut. William A. Calahan, thigh, slight; Company I, Private John M. Webster, hand, slight; Company G, James E. Riley, calf, slight; Company F, Corporal Herbert Sands, leg, severe; Company K, Oscar Mallick, head, serious.

"Private William Wolf, thigh, severe; Musician Polandose Blaisch, thigh, severe.

"First Montana—Killed: Company L, Second Lieut. Eugene S. French; Wounded: Company K, Second Lieut. Philip Greenan, thigh, slight; Company F, Fred Chastel, elbow, slight; Company B, Martin Hyman, leg, slight; Company L, William A. Stodman, thigh, severe; Company D, William F. Cramer, scalp, slight; Company I, William A. Bonham, shoulder, slight; Company G, Glen W. Hurd, foot, slight; Company G, Theodore E. Manchester, thigh and hand, severe; Company L, Thomas G. Dunn, head, serious; Company C, John F. Dunn, thigh and wrist, slight; Company A, Otto Nelson, shoulder, slight; John Shannon, buttock, slight.

"Casualties in Toledo District, Manila, February 22:

"Thirteenth Minnesota, wounded: Company D, Private Herman H. Hillman, chest, slight; Company M, Eklus G. Fehr, arm, thigh, and across chest, severe; Oscar Frickman, buttock, slight; Company G, George Baker, neck, severe.

"Twenty-third Infantry—Killed: Company G, Private Edward Reeves; Wounded: Company M, Private John L. Barker, thigh and forehead, severe; Private William Busch, Company A, Fourteenth Infantry, cabled, wounded, ninth, is error. "OTIS."

"District Measures Postponed.

Action on the following District bills was indefinitely postponed in the Senate today at the request of Senator McMillan, chairman of the District Committee:

Senate 3243—For the relief of non-residents who have paid license taxes in the District of Columbia.

Senate 4831—To provide a conduit system in the District of Columbia.

Senate 5542—To punish the impersonation of weighmasters in the District of Columbia.

Senate 2548—For the incorporation of the Mutual Savings and Benefit Association in the District of Columbia.

Senate 5644—To authorize the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company of the District of Columbia to change its motive power.

Senate 5706—For the extension of New Hampshire Avenue.

Senate 5189—To redeem certain outstanding certificates issued by the Board of Audit and the Board of Public Works of the District of Columbia.

Senate 5177—For the extension of Sherman Avenue in the District of Columbia.

Senate 5147—To condemn the right-of-way and to open Sixteenth Street, from Morris Street to Columbia Road.

Senate 5122—To change the name of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company to the Washington Traction Company.

Senate 5695—To provide for the opening of Fifth Street northwest.

Senate 5681—Authorizing the board of control of Rock Creek Park to construct a roadway across said park.

"The Khalfin Marching On.

Cairo, Feb. 24.—The Khalfin continues to advance on Omdurman. Sudanese scouts are keeping the British command informed of his position.

PARIS TRANQUIL TODAY.

The Cabinet Anxious to Prosecute Habert and Droulede.

Paris, Feb. 24.—Last night's excitement and anxiety have given place to the ordinary aspect of Paris on a bright winter morning. The firm attitude of the government decided this morning to ask the necessary authority from Parliament to prosecute Deputes Droulede and Habert, they being under exemption from the law during the parliamentary session. There is little doubt that the majority will support the government in its decision.

The penalty if Droulede and Habert are convicted would be from one month's to three years' imprisonment.

M. Millivoire will probably be released this afternoon.

President Loubet has sent a letter to the Minister of War complimenting the troops upon the faithful execution of their duties yesterday. The President has also sent 2,000 francs to the police fund in recognition of the arduous services performed by the police. The troops from outside of Paris will remain in the city for the present. They occupy improvised barracks in the railway stations, the boulevards, the central postoffice and other places.

The number of arrests made yesterday after the funeral of M. Faure was 700. Among these are several members of aristocratic families, who were taken into custody on their way to the funeral.

It is believed that the number of arrests will be refused in all cases.

THIRTEEN VOTES SHORT.

Quay Still Needs That Number to Be Elected.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 24.—The joint session today was attended by a large majority of the members, but some were paired with absentees. After today there will probably not be a quorum until Tuesday.

The joint ballot resulted: Quay, 8; Jenks, 6; Ditzel, 12; Stewart, 7; Ritter, 1; Irvin, 6; Stone, 4; Huff, 4; Widener, 3; and others, 1. Total, 75.

Necessary to a choice, 93. No election.

A resolution was introduced in the house today calling for an investigation into charges of bribery in the present contest.

It is denominated by the Quay men as a carefully connected scheme to influence public sentiment on the eve of the trial of Senator Quay and his son in Philadelphia, and has created a great excitement in the minds of the Quay leaders.

Crushed by Car Wheels.

Oakland, Md., Feb. 24.—D. S. Burgess, of Terra Alta, W. Va., met with a very serious accident at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Fifty-eight Cut, about five miles west of Oakland, while riding on a cast-iron freight train over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He leaped the trolly at Terra Alta to come to Oakland, and was riding between the cars. He lost his hold and fell between the cars, the wheels running over his right arm, crushing it so badly that amputation was necessary. He was found lying by the track about an hour after the accident occurred in an unconscious condition, and brought to Oakland for surgical aid. His escape from death was almost miraculous.

Suit for Damages.

La Plata, Md., Feb. 24.—John H. Mitchell and Adrian Posey, attorneys, have brought suit for Nicolas Mandanhayole, of Cobb Neck, against the Charles county commissioners for damages sustained by the plaintiff in the county commissioners' middle in the public road. Mr. Mandanhayole had been to a funeral, and in returning home at night dropped his pipes. He got out of his vehicle to get it, and being so full in a body that he was unable to get up, he fell in a body, breaking his leg. The fracture was afterward set, but Mr. Mandanhayole is still a sufferer. He made application to the county commissioners for pecuniary aid, but could get nothing satisfactory from the board, and hence the suit.

Flood in the Susquehanna.

Port Deposit, Md., Feb. 24.—A steady rise in the Susquehanna River caused a considerable movement of the ice at Port Deposit at 2 o'clock yesterday. Acres of ice were floated down and piled on the shore of the west side of the river down the river from Port Deposit the ice is still firm, and so long as it holds anxiety here will continue. Advice from points up the river is that very little ice is moving down. Preparations against a flood are being made by people who are most exposed. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has ordered its yard at Port Deposit to be cleared of rolling stock during the night. The river has risen three feet, but there has been no change for six hours.

Flynn's Business College, 8th and K.

Business, shorthand, typewriting—$25 a year.

DISCUSSING THE ARMY BILL.

Mr. Johnson of Indiana Attacks the President and Cabinet.

The Army appropriation bill was taken up in the House this morning.

Mr. Hull of Iowa explained its provisions and denied that the bill had been postponed in expectation of large deficiency appropriations.

He paid a great compliment to Senator Cockrell, who he said, "has been strong enough to compel the Senate to come to his proposition and do what it had very recently declared that it would never do."

The Army compromise bill has been agreed upon and was read to the House this morning for the general information of that body.

Mr. Hull objected to the Cockrell compromise, saying that if the Democrats announced that it was "this or nothing," he would prefer to take nothing and trust to the American people to give what was wanted at some later date.

Mr. Johnson of Indiana referred to the dinner of the Home Market Club of Boston, and to the fact that Secretary Alger had been bussed there. He said the Boston people could not be blamed, as many Republican papers had abused that gentleman for months while they hesitated to blame the man, who as a reward for political services in 1896, had put him in his place and kept him there, despite his incompetency and degeneracy. Secretary Long had spoken at that dinner, asserting that those who opposed the infamous Treaty with Spain were responsible for the bloodshed at Manila. Secretary Bliss had uttered a speech so flattering to the President that it must have nauseated all who heard it.

The speech of the President, he said, was a carefully devised misstatement in regard to the situation.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must not be allowed to escape responsibility for his actions. He must take the consequences if he was right and the whole fearful blame if he was wrong.

The President, he said, with an inconsistency impossible in anyone else, had said that he had been forced to take the Philippines through circumstances impossible to control. The President must