RAPID-FIRE TALK

Administration Brought in Closer Touch With People Through

Members of Press.

The meetings of the "newspaper cabinet" with President Wilson twice a week are becoming one of the features of the new administration at the White House. President Wilson is said to get keen enjoyment out of the rapid-fire discussion at the gatherings, and the newspaper men voice warm praises for the opportunity to get a personal word with the chief executive of the nation so easily and so frequently. Writing under the title of "The Presidential Megaphone," Robert D. Heinl, its Washington correspondent, describes in the current issue of Leslie's the intimate relations of the President and the members of his "newspaper cabinet." in part.

Public Wants More Facts.

"Each year the reading public demands more knowledge regarding the personal attitude of the President of the United States on great questions. In every succeeding administration added pressure is brought to bear 1 on the chief executive of the nation to secure his views. No President has had to face this demand to a higher degree than Mr. Wilson. The White House has thus far been ty to a greater degree than any of the larger government departments. It is a fact that to this day the President may not be quoted without his personal consent. No matter what he says to a newspaper man in private, the latter is not expected to use the comments verbatim or credit to the chief executive without explicit authorization. "President Wilson has not welcomed publicity-so far as he was personally predecessors who desired to sidestep the imelight, but it is a tribute to him and to his adviser, Mr. Tumulty, who is vastly more than a secretary, to note their intelligent grasp of what is news and their ability to appreciate to what extent the reading public should be taken into

Lincoln Saw All Comers.

"Mr. Lincoln saw all comers, day or night, but as the country has grown since then by leaps and bounds, the task of gaining the President's ear has become more difficult. Mr. Cleveland seldom or never met the newspaper men in person. "President Wilson was somewhat overwhelmed by the number of newspaper correspondents who greeted him in Washington. There are upward of 200 special press men at the National Capital and newspaper in the world. Mr. Wilson appeared to be chary about expressing his views in their presence. A great change was noticed after he had attended his first Gridiron dinner. That is an exclusive organization of about fifty active corre-

SCHOOL TEACHERS' PAY ANALYZED IN REPORT

Educational Bureau Says They Are Too Low to Afford Life Insurance.

States do not receive enough salary to save money to carry adequate life insursional training," announces a report of the United States bureau of education. Most of the teachers of the country have, in effect, had their salaries reduced since 1897, says the report. Despite an apparent increase in money received by them, the high cost of living has cut into their salaries just as definite ly as if a school board had sliced them. A teaching position which paid $600 in 1897 is paying in purchasing power the equivalent of about $416 today, if measured by 1897 prices; the teacher on the $1,000 salary gets no more for his money than he would have procured fifteen years

Retail Prices 50 Per Cent Higher.

The report shows that wholesale prices in 1911 were 44.1 per cent higher than in 1907; that retail prices had increased 50.2 per cent in the same period; while in June, 1912, retail food prices were 61.7 per cent higher than in 1896. With these figures as a basis an analysis of teachers' salaries in five cities in different parts of the country shows the plight of the teachers in the problem of increase cost of living.

for some things," the report states, "though their pay is about the same. Rent and clothing are bigger items in the teacher's budget than in the laborer's, indicating more exacting community demands. Teachers also spend relatively more than workingmen for life insurance, religious purposes, charity, amusement, vacations and care health.
